BRHAT-SANKARA-VIJAYA OF CITSUKHĀCĀRYA AND PRĀCĪNA- SANKARA-VIJAYA OF ĀNANDAGIRI A/S ĀNANDA-JÑĀNA

By Dr. W. R. ANTARKAR, M.A., LL.B., Ph.D.

(NOTE : During my research on the life of Śrīmad Adya Śaṅkarācārya for the Ph.D. degree of the Poona University, I was able to collect much new information on the subject. It is proposed to place this information before scholars and the public interested in the subject for their opinion and further research.)

SRI ŚAṅKARĀCĀRYA has been a very great figure indeed in Indian history. It was quite natural that many persons were inspired to write accounts of his life and life-work. Mr. T. N. Nārāyaṇa Śāstri in his 'Age of Śaṅkara' refers to ten such biographical accounts, written in Sanskrit.¹ Out of these, the first two, viz., (i) Brhat-Śaṅkara Vijaya by Citsukha and (ii) Prācīna-Śaṅkara Vijaya by Ānandagiri a/s Ānandajñāna did not become available to me even after an intensive search for them throughout India. We, however, get references to and

1. The ten works are :

- (i) Brhat Śaṅkara Vijaya or Guru Vijaya by Citsukhācārya.
- (ii) Prācīna-Śaṅkara-Vijaya by Ānandagiri.
- (iii) Śaṅkara Vijaya by Anantānandagiri.
- (iv) Śaṅkara-Vijaya, or Vyāsācāliya by Vidyāśaṅkara a/s Śaṅkarānanda a/s Vyāsācāliya.
- (v) Śaṅkarācāryacaritam or Keraliya Śaṅkara Vijaya by Govindanātha.
- (vi) Śaṅkara-Vijaya-Vilāsa by Cidvilāsa.
- (vii) Śaṅkarābhyudaya by Rājacūḍāmaṇi-Dixit.
- (viii) Saṅkṣepa-Śaṅkara-Jaya by Mādhavācārya—generally known as Śaṅkara-Digvijaya by Śrī Vidyāranya.
- (ix) Śaṅkara-Digvijaya-Sāra by Sadānandayati.
- (x) Ācārya-Digvijaya by Vallisāhāya. Out of these, I was able to get only eight, the first two still remaining untraced. In addition to these eight, I was able to procure the following biographies of Śaṅkara.
- (i) Śaṅkarācāryamahimā by Bālagopālayati.
- (ii) Śaṅkara Vijaya or Brhat Śaṅkara Vijaya by Brahmānanda Sarasvatī.
- (iii) Ācāryavijayacampū by Paramaśvara Kavi Kaṇṭhārava.
- (iv) Śaṅkara Vijaya Saṅgraha by Puruṣottama Bhārati.
- (v) Śaṅkarābhyudaya by Tirumala Dixit.
- (vi) Guruvaiṣṇava-Kāvya by Kāśī Laxman Śūri.
- (vii) Śaṅkaramandāra-Saurabha by Nilakaṇṭha.

quotations from both these works, about the genuineness and the very existence of which scholars are extremely sceptical. I, therefore, intend to record my findings in regard to these two works.

(i) Br. Ś. V. of Cit.

We read about this work from the following sources :

(a) Mr. T. Kṛṣṇamācāri mentions this work as a biography of Śaṅkara² and following him, the editor of Vyāsācala's Śaṅkara-Vijaya, refers to it as the 9th biography of Śaṅkara.³

(b) Prof. Baldev Upādhyāya refers in two places⁴ to a manuscript of this work and ascribes it to Sarvajña Citsukha.

(c) The editor of Citsukhī, published by Udāsina Sanskrit Vidyālaya, Kāsi says clearly that 'Citsukha has also written one biography of Śaṅkara and portions thereof are available here and there.'⁵

My efforts to trace these references further, by contacting the last three persons personally and by correspondance failed to yield any fruitful results.

(d) Suṣamā, a commentary on Guru-ratna-Mālīka, a list of Gurus of Kāñci-Kāmakoti Pīṭha, distinctly refers to and quotes from Br. Ś.V. of Citsukha, who is described as "Śrī Sarvajña Citsukhācārya who served the ācārya every minute, was witness to the entire happening (of Śaṅkara's life) and associated with him without break throughout his life."⁶ Recently, I have been reliably informed that the Mutt's library contains even today a manuscript-copy of the Br. Ś.V. by Citsukha.

(e) The best evidence is supplied by Mr. T. S. N. Śāstri who tells us that this Br. Ś.V. consisted of three parts (i) Pūrvācārya-Satpatha, (ii) Śaṅkarācārya Satpatha and (iii) Sureśvarācārya Satpatha, out of which he was able to procure a mutilated MS. copy of the second part only.⁷ Mr. Śāstri worked on this copy and has given in his incomplete book, an account of Śaṅkara's life, upto his meeting with Kumārila Bhaṭṭa, according to the version of Citsukha, and while doing so, he has given quotations from the original work in many places. He gives the following information about Citsukha, as culled by him from the said work.

In the Upoddhāta prakaraṇa of his Br. Ś.V., Citsukha states that he was a native of Gokarna in the Kerala state. He came in contact with Śaṅkara when the latter was a boy of five years only, reading in a Gurukulā. Thereafter, when Śaṅkara started in search of a Guru, Citsukha joined him on the way at Gokarna and followed him closely without break till Śaṅkara laid down his body at Kāñci, in the temple of Kāmākṣī. Citsukha was senior to Śaṅkara by five years and was thus an eye-witness to his life and doings almost from the beginning to the end.

Citsukha's original name was Viṣṇuśarmaṇ while Citsukha was the name given to him by Śaṅkara himself, when at the former's request, he initiated him into the order of Saṁnyasins and made him his first disciple. Citsukha has described this incident after narrating the story of Śaṅkara's initiation at the hands of Lord Śiva Himself, manifested as Dakṣiṇāmūrti, on one of the peaks of mount Kailāsa in the Himālayas.

This same Citsukha is said to have ascended later on, the Dvārakā-Pīṭha as the 2nd ācārya and a successor of Sri Brahmasvarūpācārya and passed away 24 years thereafter, at the ripe old age of 80 years.

Citsukha's work is also called Guru-Vijaya because of its very great bulk and gives the various works, major as well as minor-including the devotional hymns written by Śaṅkara, with their occasion, time and place. The smaller works like hymns are given in full while the longer ones have only been referred to.

It is important to note that the information about Citsukha, given by Mr. Śāstri corroborates the one given in Suṣamā, referred to already, although the latter is not so exhaustive. It is also worth noting that Citsukha's version of Śaṅkara's life as given by Mr. Śāstri, which differs from the versions of the same in all the other biographies in Sanskrit, eminently agrees with the one as culled from the quotations from Br. Ś.V. in Suṣamā. The quotations in the latter, however, are few and far between and are not sufficient for a regular reconstruction of Śaṅkara's life-account along altogether fresh lines, as found in the work of Mr. Śāstri. This obviates a possible objection that Mr. Śāstri has only based his version on the quotations contained in the Suśamā, which has to be placed at least 200 years prior to the work of Mr. Śāstri (1916 A.D.).

7. Vide 'Age of Śaṅkara' Part I, Ch. III, p. 37.

An interesting piece of information in this connection is supplied by the works of Cidvilāsa and Sadānanda (Śaṅkara-Vijaya-Vilāsa and Śaṅkara-Digvijaya-Sāra). Sadānanda has stated at the very commencement of his work that he had before him an अगाधज्ञाङ्कुरदिग्जय which he was trying to summarise for purification of his mind, while Cidvilāsa tells us that he was narrating what was transmitted to him by his Guru. Mr. Śāstri, who had with him these two works also, says that these two biographers have followed Citsukha's work, more or less, though I have found that Sadānanda deviates from Citsukha more than otherwise.

Now, while describing Śaṅkara's encounter with Kumārila, Mr. Śāstri has quoted a whole passage of 29 stanzas as from Br. Ś.V. of Citsukha, in which (passage) Kumārila is said to give an account of his own previous life to Śaṅkara. Sadānanda and Cidvilāsa repeat, in the same context, many of these stanzas almost verbatim, of course omitting many and making small but very important changes in those they have adopted. The most important alteration is that the Jains and Vardhamāna Mahāvira in Citsukha's version have been replaced in both by Bauddhas and a Bauddha Guru.⁸ The correspondence, however, between Citsukha and Cidvilāsa and Citsukha and Sadānanda is too obvious to be overlooked and leads us to infer not only that such a work as Br. Ś.V. must have existed but also that it was the same as the one possessed by Mr. Śāstri and the one which these two writers had before them.

From the foregoing evidence, it seems fairly well certain that Br. Ś.V. was not only a genuinely existing biography of Śaṅkara, and not a mere name, but also that the version of Śaṅkara's life given by Mr. Śāstri as from the same has at least sufficient prima facie claim to our attention as one based on the same.

The second work to be considered is Pr. Ś. Jaya of Ānandajñāna a/s Ānandagiri.

8. See F.N. 18.

At the very outset, we have to remember that this is different from another work called Śaṅkara Vijaya by Anantānandagiri (the author's name sometimes being given wrongly as Ānandagiri) and printed in 1886 in the Bibliotheca Indica Series. I have proved this point at some length in my thesis and also that most possibly, this second work is greatly based on the former. The following pieces of evidence tend to prove the existence of this Pr. Ś.V. till recently.

(1) Mr. T. S. N. Śāstri seems to have had this work with him, though he does not expressly say so. He quotes from it a few stanzas. Suśamā quotes from this work profusely. By curious coincidence, both Mr. Śāstri and Suśamā quote as from this same work, an identical stanza,⁹ relating to the derivation of 'Govindamuni', Śaṅkara's Guru.

(2) Mādhava (popularly but wrongly known as Vidyāranya) expressly refers to the work Pr. Ś.V. by name in the very first stanza¹⁰ of his work, which he says is going to be an epitome of the same. In the absence of the original work, it is not possible to say how far he has kept to this object but one circumstance, though minor, is worth noting. While describing the creation of a hot water lake by Śaṅkara for his Guru Govindamuni, for daily bath in the cold Himalayan regions, Mr. Śāstri quotes as from Pr. Ś.V. of Ānanda two stanzas¹¹ in that connection. Mādhava repeats both these stanzas in the same connection, as Ch. XVI: 101 and 102 but substitutes the word शिष्यसङ्घ for देशिकस्य in the first stanza. Except for this difference, the two stanzas are copied verbatim.

(3) Mādhava's S.Ś. Jaya (miscalled Śaṅkara-Digvijaya) is commented upon by Acyutarāja Modak. The commentary was written about 1830 A.D. and is known as Advaitarāja-Laxmi. This commentary supplies valuable evidence regarding the existence of Pr. Ś.V.

9. The stanza is:

सततं निगदन्सेतयोऽसौ जय गोविन्द जयेति सूक्तिमेकाम् ।

धितमीनममूहदन्ववादे जयगोविन्दमूर्ति तदाहुरेतम् ॥

10. Read: प्राचीनज्ञाङ्कुरजये सारः संगृह्यते स्फुटम् ॥ I: ॥

11. The stanzas are:

तप्तोदकं प्रार्थयते स्म चन्द्रकलाधरातीर्थकरप्रधानः ॥

कर्मन्दिबृन्दपतिना गिरिशोऽर्चितः सन् सन्तप्तवारिलहरीं स्वपदारविन्दात् ।

प्रावर्तयत्प्रथयती यतिनाथकीर्तिं याञ्चापि तत्र समुदञ्चति तप्ततोया ॥

(i) While commenting on the first stanza quoted already from Mādhava's work, Acyutarāya has clearly identified Pr. Ś. Jaya as Pr. Ś. Vijaya, written by Ānandajñāna a/s Ānandagiri, the disciple of Śuddhānanda and the writer of commentaries on Śaṅkara's Bhāṣyas.¹²

(ii) While commenting upon XV: 3 of Mādhava's work, Acyutarāya says that the amplified version of the story (etat-prapañcah) should be seen in the work of Ānandajñāna a/s Ānandagiri the disciple of Śuddhānanda, which is the basis of the present work (of Mādhava).¹³ After this remark, Acyutarāya actually quotes as from the same Pr. Ś. V., 58 stanzas, which cannot be traced to any of the existing Śaṅkara-Vijayas (about 15 in number) including the printed one by Anantānandagiri. It is precisely for this reason as also for some others,¹⁴ that even though in two other places, the same commentator Acyutarāya seems to identify the two works Pr. Ś. V. and Ś. V. of Ānandagiri and Anantānandagiri respectively, the identification has to be ruled out as erroneous and the two works have to be kept distinct with two distinct authors.

(iii) While commenting upon XVI: 103 of Mādhava's work, Acyutarāya quotes from Śivarahasya and once more refers to the work of Ānandajñāna a/s Ānandagiri.¹⁵

(iv) While commenting on other stanzas of Mādhava's work, Acyutarāya names the author or the work or both thus:

(a) At I: 3, he explains, the 'previous poet' as 'the author of Śaṅkara-Vijaya already defined'.¹⁶

It is to be noted that in 14 and 16 the name of Ānandagiri's work is given as Pr. Ś. V. and not as Pr. Ś. V. The name of the author is the same and the work of Anantānandagiri is nowhere mentioned as Pr. Ś. V. This name, therefore, is given either through an oversight for it is properly the name of Citsukha's work or it is so given on account of the bulk of the work of Ānandagiri, which also is reported to be voluminous.

16. Read: "प्राक्कविरत्र निरुक्तशङ्करविजयकृदेव ।" on I: 3.

(b) He refers to Pr. Ś. V. by name in the prefatory words to I:5.¹⁷

(c) At I:28 and I:85, he refers to Śaṅkara Vijaya by Ānandagiri and Pr. Ś. V. respectively and gives quotations from that same work, which again are not traced to any of the existing Śaṅkara-Vijayas.

All these details seem to show beyond doubt not only that a work called Pr. Ś. V. by Ānandajñāna a/s Ānandagiri existed but also that it was before Acyutarāya in 1830 A.D. and that he used it for his commentary on Mādhava's work. Dhanapatisūri, an earlier commentator of Mādhava's work confirms this finding re: Pr. Ś. V. as follows:

Mādhava, as we have seen, is summarising the Pr. Ś. V. Ch. XV of Mādhava's work deals with Śaṅkara's triumphant tour. Dhanapatisūri quotes 58 stanzas, 402 stanzas and 351 stanzas respectively in his commentary on st. 2, st. 4 and st. 28/29 of this chapter, with the common introductory remark अत्रेदमवधार्यम् and ends the quotations with the remarks एतत्सर्वं संप्रहेण दर्शयति (st. 2), तदेतत्संक्षिप्योक्तं स्वयं इत्यादिना (st. 4) and तदेतत्सर्वं संक्षिप्याह यतिरादिति (st. 29). From this, it seems that according to Dhanapatisūri, the stanzas quoted were the relevant portions of Pr. Ś. V. intended to be summarised by Mādhava in those particular stanzas. We, however, are not left to surmise only. The first 58 stanzas, quoted by Dhanapatisūri, are the same as the 58 stanzas quoted by Acyutarāya in his commentary on XV: 3 of Mādhava's work and Acyutarāya, as seen already, has ascribed all of them to Ānandajñāna a/s Ānandagiri. This shows that all 811 stanzas and not merely 58 quoted by Dhanapatisūri must have been taken by him from one and the same work viz. Pr. Ś. V. by Ānandajñāna a/s Ānandagiri. Not even one of these 800 and odd stanzas is to be found in any of the existing Śaṅkara Vijayas nor do they form part of Śaṅkara-Vijaya of Anantānandagiri in particular.

The conclusion, therefore, seems quite clear that both the commentators of Mādhava's work had before them and have utilised, more or less, the work called Pr. Ś. V. of Ānandajñāna a/s Ānandagiri, which formed the basis of the work of Mādhava himself. The same work has been drawn upon earlier by Suśamā and later on by Mr. T. S. N. Śāstri, both of whom seem to have had the same with them in the original. Lastly, regarding this work also, I have been reliably informed that a MS. copy of the same exists even today in the Kānci Mutt library.

17. Read: नन्वेवमपि प्राचीनशङ्करविजयस्यैव सारोद्धारेण कस्तव लाभ इति.... ।

It, therefore, can be concluded that there did exist till recently two such works as Br. Ś.V. of Citsukhācārya and Pr. Ś.V. of Ānandagiri though none of them is available to us today and that they are not mere names, as believed by some.

18. The three passages, are :
